

Kaori has 15 years experience working globally as a business developer, sales person, PR, research strategist in the financial institutions, IT companies, and global brand companies.

Also she specialized in commercial law for over 5 years to make her in charge of legal matters and business contracts in some companies.

Kaori joined QuantFi in November 2019. In her current role, she heads the QuantFi Japan operation to grow its business in the Japanese market and beyond.

She majored in the Western European art history based on Christianity and Philosophy at the University in Tokyo, so it helps her work well with French people. And she grew up in the US in her childhood so it makes her an open-minded global person.
